

Dear Sir/Madam,

I have recently become aware of the proposed television ownership rules change. I am quite surprised that there has been very little coverage by both TV and Radio on such an important issue that could drastically affect our future.

I believe that like our constitution that was written quite some time ago, has withstood the test of time and has been the foundation for our values. The FCC rules were also written sometime ago and have served our country well, and should be treated with the same level of vigilance and protection.

I do not support eliminating the numerical limits on national broadcast television ownership and raising national audience reach cap to 35 percent and changing the dual network rule.

The proposal will limit the diversity, innovation and put the control of the airwaves in the hands of a few. I also believe that critical issues that are to be investigated and made known to the public could be potentially kept off the air, as demonstrated by the public lack of knowledge of the proposed rule changes.

I believe that every community needs to be involved and to be heard by the FCC before any rules are changed. I suggest that you urge the media outlets to inform the public on this critical issue.

I certainly hope that you would strongly reject the rule changes.

Sincerely,

Andrew O. Edwards
